

Intertemporal private law is a well known sub-discipline of (German) Private Law, which takes on a particularly important role when fundamental changes of the law are at stake, and deals with the core issues of legal transition in Private Law.

Brexit brings about such a fundamental change. Brexit, therefore, now poses the question, how English Private Law and the Private Laws of the remaining member states (including EU Private Law) will and should deal with the particular Private Law questions of the fundamental changes in law brought about by the UK leaving the European Union.

The event is directed towards scholars and students as well as representatives of businesses and administration.

Venue:

The workshop takes place in the building “Rechts- und Wirtschaftswissenschaften (RW I)”, Room K 3, at the University of Bayreuth.

Rechts- und Wirtschaftswissenschaften (RW I)
Universitätsstraße 30
95447 Bayreuth

Attendance fee:

The participation in the workshop is free of charge.
The lunch is not included.

Registration:

Please send an e-mail to register to verbraucherrecht@uni-bayreuth.de
Closing date is 11 September, 2018.

Due to limited room capacity, an early registration is recommended.

FAO-Bescheinigung (für Deutschland):

Eine Teilnahmebestätigung nach § 15 FAO wird auf Wunsch erteilt (vorbehaltlich der Anerkennung durch die für Sie zuständige Rechtsanwaltskammer).

Contact:

Forschungsstelle für Verbraucherrecht
Phone: 0921/55-6121
E-Mail: verbraucherrecht@uni-bayreuth.de

Workshop*“Brexit and Intertemporal Private Law”

18 September, 2018
University of Bayreuth

FFV Forschungsstelle für Verbraucherrecht

Tuesday,
18 September, 2018

09:00 Opening

14:00 Financial Services Contracts and Brexit

*Hugh Beale
University of Warwick*

The next (15th) Consumer Law Forum will deal with “Data as Assets” and take place in Bayreuth on 21 and 22 February, 2019. The working language will be German.

09:15 What could Brexit mean for Private Law?

*Christopher Bisping
University of Warwick*

15:00 Continuity of contracts and change of legal context

*Martin Schmidt-Kessel
University of Bayreuth*

It will be organized under the auspices of the Centre for Consumer Law by Dr. Tereza Pertot.

10:00 Coffee break

16:00 Tea break

Several presentations will analyse ideas relating to proprietary rights in data, followed by a session on possession-like ideas in access to and control of data. This will be combined with the question of whether data could be the object of a trust. The workshop will deal with data as an object of contractual obligations.

11:00 The German concept of intertemporal private law

*Malte Kramme
University of Bayreuth*

16:30 Brexit and company law in Germany

*Jessica Schmidt
University of Bayreuth*

The overarching idea of the whole workshop is to contribute to the legal infrastructure for the data economy.

12:00 Is there an English intertemporal private law?

*Christian Twigg-Flesner
University of Warwick*

17:30 Closing remarks

13:00 Lunch break